who we are

LOVE is a one-of-a-kind social business that funds its outreach services through corporate services. LOVE's outreach services include education, employability, social care, and physical health programmes, while its corporate services include professional training and recruitment. With a drive for social justice, inclusion and wellbeing at its core, LOVE's disruptive model for outreach services identifies opportunities to support vulnerable individuals in Scotland who would otherwise have limited or no access to the services they need.

LOVE care services

LOVE Care offers an intensive social crisis package run by social care workers which is available 24/7, meaning that there is support available to individuals outside the usual business hours offered by crisis care services.

Our home care services are for children, young people, adults and the elderly. Offering home care services that are combined with compassion, kindness and love, and provide mental health crisis support, end of life palliative care, personal care and domiciliary services.

All members of staff at LOVE care share the same values. Our aim is to offer a service to our customers that makes them feel in control of their own life, make them feel safe and secure in the knowledge that their care and support workers are honest trustworthy skilled and highly professionals who will support them to achieve their desired outcomes while living in their own home.
